Every year, thousands of people visit one of the world's most famous address: 221B Baker Street, London. The address is famous for being where the fictional detective Sherlock Holmes lived in the well-known stories by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

A lot of people are so taken with the stories that they forget Sherlock Holmes wasn't a real person and therefore didn't ever actually live at the address. In fact, there was no house there when Conan Doyle wrote the stories. Despite that, the Sherlock Holmes Museum, which is actually at Number 239, is a fun place to visit if you are ever in London.

So, if Sherlock Holmes is a made-up character, why do so many people think of him as a real person?

It is often said that the character Sherlock Holmes was based on a real person named Benjamin Bell, a forensic surgeon(法医外科医生)for whom Conan Doyle worked as a clerk at the Edinburgh Royal Hospital. Sherlock Holmes' problem-solving ability and power of observation are based on the surgeon. Bell was called on by the police to join in several investigations, just as Sherlock Holmes did.

Conan Doyle found the inspiration for the name of his famous detective elsewhere, though. He was an expert cricket player and combined the names of two other well-known players, Shacklock and Sherwin, to make the name "Sherlock".

Another thing that makes the character seem like a real person is his distinctive habits. He rarely ate breakfast and he enjoyed smoking. He even had a habit that would be illegal today-taking cocaine.

Sherlock Holmes is also an honorary member of the Royal Society of Chemistry. Even though he's not a real person, the society decided to make him a member. Although his famous methods for solving mysteries started in fiction, many of them became part of modern-day policing.

Although the character is made-up, most of the locations are real. One of Conan Doyle's strengths as an author is describing a London that seems so real to the reader. Most of the famous locations in the books are in London and Sherlock Holmes fans love to visit the locations in the books and those used later in the movies.

Sherlock Holmes is the second most represented character in movies, which is part of what makes him so famous all over the world. So, now what's your favourite version of the Sherlock Holmes stories? The books, movies or TV series?

28. The underlined part in paragraph 2 can be replaced by_____.

A. crazy about

B. familiar with

---

C. curious about

D. content with

29. What can we learn about the writer Sir Arthur Conan Doyle from the passage?

A. He was a forensic surgeon who assisted the police in making several investigations.

B. He wrote the stories about Sherlock Holmes at Number 239 Baker Street.

C. He was good at giving vivid descriptions of London to readers.

D. He was an excellent basketball player.

30. What can we learn from the passage?

A. Where Sherlock Holmes lived in the novel was actually where the Sherlock Holmes Museum lies now.

B. It's generally accepted that the character Sherlock Holmes was based on a surgeon named Bell.

C. The Royal Society of Chemistry has given Sherlock Holmes a great honor at the request of his fans.

D. One of the reasons why Sherlock Holmes is so famous around the world is that the actors have Wonderful performances in movies.

31. What's the purpose of writing this article?

A. to let the readers learn about some life information on Sherlock Holmes.

B. to tell the readers about stories behind Sherlock Holmes.

C. to make us get a better idea of the novel "Sherlock Holmes."

D. to convince us that the Sherlock Holmes Museum is worth visiting.

There are some English expressions about birds. For examples, if something is for the birds, it is worthless or not very interesting. Someone who eats like a bird eats very little. And a birds-eye view is a general look at an area from above.

Do you know that if you tell a Young person about the birds and the bees you are explaining about sex and birth? Have you ever observed that birds of a feather flock together? In other Words, people who are similar became friends or do things together. Here is some good advice: a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. This means you should not risk loving something you have by trying to get more of something you do not have.

Sometimes you can do two things by performing only one action. This is called killing two invention. After the gold rush of 1849, Strauss decided to move to the West to seek his fortune.

Strauss did not want to be a person who searched an area for minerals. Instead, he knew he could make a good living by selling supplies to the miners. At first, he planned to sell sewing supplies and cloth. 38 When he heard miners complaining that their clothes were easily broken or they usually tore their pockets during mining, he decided to use a special fabric to make pants for the miners. These pants proved so popular that he quickly ran out of materials to make more.

In 1873, Strauss received a letter from a Jewish tailor named Jacob Davis who had invented a process of connecting pockets with copper rivets (铆钉). This made the pants last a long time. Because Davis did not have the money to patent his idea, he offered to share it with Strauss if Strauss would agree to pay for the patent. 39 By the time Strauss died in 1902, he had made a great contribution to American fashion. 40 The business has been growing ever since and Levi Strauss' company is now one of the largest clothing companies in the world.

- A. As a young boy, he moved with his family to the United States.
- B. Nobody knew that kind of material was suitable.
- C. He did and Levi jeans have been made with metal rivets ever since.
- D. However, he did not get much business for those products.
- E. He also made a great contribution to American 's clothing industry.
- F. Since they were invented by Levi Strauss, they have become a symbol of American consumer culture.
- G. As the business grew, Strauss got much money from it.

第一节 完形填空 (共 20 小题; 每小题 1.5 分, 满分 30 分)

阅读下面短文, 从短文后各题所给的四个选项 (A、B、C 和 D) 中, 选出可以填入空白处最佳选项。

Cinnamon (桂皮) Lady

I got a call from my sister that my dad had taken a turn for the worse, and I needed to get home right away. I wasn't 41 for that. When I got to the hospital, he had already slipped 42 a coma(昏迷). I had 43 all the dramatic goodbyes that were said because everyone knew he was not going to 44 it. So that was upsetting.

After two weeks, I brought up the idea that maybe we should take my dad off life 45. We all knew it was time. I thought that once the medical aid was 46, there'd be a lot of crying for ten to 15 minutes, and then the person would pass away. 47, we waited for five hours.

Right in the middle of this, the attending doctor 48 for another patient into our room. When nurses 49 a woman in, one who had just had heart surgery, I thought, "That's not a good idea. My dad is dying. Why are you bringing in a woman who's had heart surgery? It's a bad 50."

The woman was on a lot of medication, saying crazy things and 51 her covers off. I'm on this side of the room, with a 52 that is not very soundproof (隔音的), sitting by my dad, saying, "I love you, Dad."

From the other side, we heard, "Cinnamon".

"You were such a great dad to me."

"Cinnamon"

"Dad, you were wonderful."

"Cinnamon."

53, we couldn't help laughing, because our life was exploding in front of our eyes, and at that moment we were crying and laughing. We all stopped crying for a moment and laughed really 54.

Four hours later, a nurse said, "It's time. His heart rate is 55." We held my dad's hands and the nurse said again, "Maybe if you tell him it's OK to go, he'll go." So we all said, "Daddy, it's OK" and ". We love you" and my mom said, "John, you were such a great dad and I love you". Suddenly across the room from the old lady in the bed, we heard, "Don't go. John".

Yeah. That was 56 was inside me. I thought I gave that woman my words: "Don't go. John. Don't go". But he did. I had my hand on his chest and his heart 57.

Later, we found out Cinnamon Lady—that's what I 58 her, Cinnamon Lady—didn't have anyone in her life named John. I thought, wow, that's 59. But we also 60 she was a baker. So we understood the cinnamon part.

第二节 书面表达（满分 25 分）

Dear David

I'm glad to receive your letter. I've learnt that you are concerned about the smog which frequently strikes some cities and areas of China. Thanks for your concern. I'm also very worried about such terrible weather because it has brought much inconvenience or rather harm to people's health such as traffic jam, road accidents, bad coughs and even lung cancers and so on.

As is known to all, good environment comes from careful protection. So we should do what we can to protect it. I believe a small step can make a difference. Try to drive less and choose air-friendly products. Only when everyone has the environmental awareness can we have a blue sky.

Looking forward to hearing from you and share your good ideas.

听力录音稿

Text 1

W: Do you think you could stop whistling? I'm trying to write a paper.

M: Oh, I'm sorry. I thought you were in the next room.

Text 2

M: Did you hear what the weatherman said just now?

W: Yes. He said the temperature would be slightly above freezing tomorrow.

Text 3

M: Can I help you?

W: Have you got David Copperfield by Dickens? I want a copy for my nephew.

M: Oh, sorry! We haven't got that at the moment, but we could order it for you. Do you know the name of the publisher?

Text 4

W: I've brought lunch. So we can eat in the park.

M: That's much more fun than eating in the restaurant.

Text 5

W: New City Railway Station.

M: Good morning. Could you tell me the time of the last train to London, please?

W: Last train to London? Yes, sir. 8:35, change at Oxford.

M: Thank you very much.

Text 6

M: What seems to be the matter?

W: I just can't sleep well, doctor.

M: I see. How long have you been like this?

W: Oh, for about two weeks now.

M: Two weeks. Do you have a headache?

W: Sometimes.

M: Fever?

W: No.

M: Are you having any family problems?

W: No, not really. We all get along pretty well.

M: And how about work?

W: Well, I've been working a lot lately—more than 11 hours a day.

M: Maybe you should take a vacation and just rest for a few days.

W: Well, I can't right now. We're in the middle of some important business.

M: Yes, I understand, but you really need to slow down. You're going to kill yourself if you go on like this.

Text 7

W: What part of the paper are you reading?

M: The travel section.

W: Are you thinking about our vacation already?

M: Yes, it's not so far away. I've been looking at these advertisements.

W: Why don't we go to the same place we went last year?

M: I won't stay at that hotel again. I have a better idea for this year. Look at this advertisement. This looks like a wonderful vacation to me.

W: "Three weeks", "Ten exciting ports", "Use the ship as a hotel". How much does it cost?

M: The price isn't given.

W: It must be expensive if they don't give the price in the paper. And besides, I'd rather stay in one place.

M: I don't want to sit on the same beach and eat the same food and look at the same walls every day for three or four weeks.

W: You know the doctor said you shouldn't try to do too much.

M: He didn't say that I had to sit in the same chair all day long.

M: Did you hear what Fred did last night?

W: No, not yet. What happened to him?

M: I guess he was a little drunk and he had a fight with his brother. Well, he got so mad that he drove his car straight into the front of a store.

W: What do you mean?

M: I mean he drove inside. The front of the store was completely destroyed. I actually saw it just now as I walked by. The car is still inside the store next to the milk! There is food all over it. It is in a terrible state.

W: I'm afraid Fred is in trouble. Where is he now?

M: I hear he's in the police station. It's lucky no one was hurt.

M: Can I help you?

W: Yes, I want to fly to Chicago on Wednesday the seventh and return on Friday the ninth. How much are the tickets?

M: Tickets are cheaper if you stay over Saturday night.

W: Thanks, but unfortunately I've already arranged some business here that Friday. So I'll just have to pay the extra cost.

M: What time of day would you prefer? Morning or afternoon?

W: Morning, because I have to be there by early evening. Is there a meal?

M: Yes, they'll be serving breakfast, and you'll also see a film.

W: Sounds good. But what's the total cost?

M: 850 dollars round trip.

W: That's more than I expected!

M: Hello! I'm Harvard Smith. As the editor of The Voice, I'd like to introduce you to our school daily newspaper. We need volunteers to help us keep the student body informed through our newspaper. Experience isn't absolutely necessary. But we need people with writing and typing skills. Since The Voice comes out five days a week, we need excellent students who know how to plan their time well. Good grades are necessary. We can pay you, depending on your work but don't expect to get rich. This isn't something you do for the money. Mostly it's just for fun. Anyone who is interested in this job should speak to me immediately after this meeting. Be prepared to start right now!

The first issue goes to press tomorrow.
