

2011—2012 学年度下学期期末考试 13 年级英语科试卷答案：

听力部分: 1-5 CABCA      6-10 CAAAC      11-15 ABCAB      16-20 CBABC
单项选择: 21-25 ADCBD      26-30 DBABC      31-35 CDACB
完型填空: 36-40 BABDD      41-45 ACABD      46-50 BBCDC      51-55 ABABD
阅读理解: 56-59 DBAC      60-63 DCDB      64-66 ACA      67-70 DBCD
71-75 BFGAC

短文改错：

As the development of the Internet, more and more people sent electronic With send cards instead of paper ones at New Year's time. Compare with traditional cards, Compared electronic ones are more interested and lively, as they have both pictures and interesting sound. In addition ~~to~~, it's faster to send an electronic card on the Internet that than different kinds of cards are available. Moreover, you can use flash or other software to design cards of unique styles unless you aren't satisfied with the given if
one. More important, due to the popularity of electronic cards, less paper is used.
importantly is
Thus, electronic cards contribute to environmental protection and in turns do good turn to human beings.

另更正：In addition to, it's faster to send an electronic card on the Internet that different kinds of cards are available.

答案更正为：that 改为 where

书面表达（One possible vision）

My dear fellow students,

With the last summer holiday in high school drawing near, being a senior-student-to-be, I call on everyone to make good preparations for the last year study.

To begin with, we should work out an appropriate study plan, and carry it out, because good plan can make a person perfect. In addition, as every minute counts, we have to take good advantage of time, and go over what we have learned in the past two years, so we should devote ourselves to it. Finally, the third year in high school is very hard and tough for every one, so we are supposed to make good physical and mental preparations.

As for me, being a promising student, I would like to keep my promise. I think I will end up with a bright future with my hard work.

Li Hua

听力原文

Text 1

M: You've been coughing so much these days. You must go to see your doctor this morning or I'll call him in.

W: Don't worry. I've taken some medicine and I'll be all right soon.

Text 2

W: How do you like your new job?

M: It's tiring but well paid. They paid me 800 dollars last week, almost double what I earned last year.

Text 3

M: Why haven't you left for school, Mary?

W: Our teachers have gone to have a conference in New York and there is no school today.

Text 4

M: Read the three books and tell me how you like them before next Monday.

W: But one of them will take me a month, Professor.

M: You're no longer a middle school girl, Helen. A university student should learn to read much faster.

W: Got it.

Text 5

W: What did you think of the art exhibition?

M: We didn't see it at all. When we got there, it had already been closed.

W: Where did you go then?

M: The bookstore. We bought a magazine for you and two cartoon books for Tommy.

Text 6

M: Hello, Alice. This is Frank.

W: Hello, Frank. I thought you had left for Sydney.

M: Not yet. My plane doesn't leave until 4:30 this afternoon. I'm calling to ask if I can borrow your camera. I lent mine to Jack last week but he broke it.

W: Certainly. I bought it last May and it works very well.

M: Good. Shall I go for it now?

W: You needn't. It happens to be in my car. I'm driving to my uncle's now and I will pass by your house in about five minutes.

M: Then I'll wait for you at the Baker's.

Text 7

W: Look at that guy! He's got such a moustache!

M: Ah, I know him. He's Bill Franks, a young actor who became famous after playing Albert Einstein.

W: Does he live around here?

M: No. he's a New Yorker. I wonder why he has come to London.

W: When did you get to know him? I never heard of you speaking of him.

M: Remember I have a friend called Tom Hanks? When I visited him last summer, he took me to a party. Most of the people there were film stars, and Bill Franks was one of them.

W: That's interesting.

M: Let's go and say hello to him.

Text 8

M: Susan, I was shocked to hear about your son's accident. How is he now?

W: Mike's conscious now. But the doctors say he's got to stay there for a couple of weeks.

M: Have they found out who hit him?

W: Yes. It was the driver of a small red car. He has drunk so much that he hadn't woken up when the police went to his house this morning. Now they have taken him to the station.

M: It serves him right. Well, I came specially to ask if I could be of any help.

W: Thank you, Bob. Please tell the manager I won't be able to go to work until next Monday.

M: OK. Anything else?

W: Please return the calculator to John for me. It's in my desk and here is the key.

Text 9

M: From your letter we know you have worked in a nursery before, so we think you're well qualified for the job, Miss Yang. We would be interested in having you work for us.

W: Thank you, sir.

M: Are you interested in full-time or part-time employment?

W: Part-time, please.

M: But part-time employees don't get any other benefits besides the pay, you know.

W: I know that. But I have to stay at home some time during the day to look after my mother.

M: Well, then you'll have to work here from 7:00 to 12:00 in the morning or from 1:00 to 6:00 in the afternoon.

W: I prefer to work in the afternoon. I have to make meals for my mother and feed her.

M: OK, Miss Yang. You're hired. And we'll pay you 500 dollars a week. Sign your name here on this paper please.

W: When shall I begin my work here? Next Monday?

M: The sooner, the better. You can come here tomorrow if possible.

W: Then I'll come the day after tomorrow.

Text 10

The first important thing to do on the first day in college is to try to walk around the campus and find out where your classrooms are located. It will save you arriving 15 minutes late for your classes, which may make some professors angry. All new students are at a loss, but you will feel more confident if you know where to show up.

The second most important thing is to learn about your professors' lecture style. Your professors will hand out a teaching plan and start a lecture. Each professor's lecture style is different. Don't worry, though. In a few weeks, you'll get used to his or her style and start to recognize the faces of your fellow students.

Most colleges have some type of "Welcome Week" with tons of activities for new students. You don't have to go to every activity, but if something sounds interesting, check it out. It's a good way to meet new friends too.