Kimbrely Kirberger is the president and founder of Inspiration and Motivation for Teens, Inc. (I. A. M for. Teens. Inc.) a corporation formed exclusively(专有地) to work for teens. It is her goal to see teens represented in a more positive light and it is her strong belief that teens deserve(应受) better and more positive treatment.

She spends her time reading the thousands of letters and stories sent to her by teen readers and traveling around the country speaking to high school students and parents of teens. She has appeared as a teen expert on many television and radio shows.

Kimberly says that the college soul book has been an amazing journey. In getting close to and hearing from so many teenagers she kept hearing about this very emotionally packed time that begins with application to college and extends (延伸) through the four-year experience. It became clear to her that this was a time of life that was filled with many challenges and that college students could really benefit from a book like this. For her, it was simply a continuation of a commitment(义务) that she has made to teenagers to do what she can to inspire and motivate them while letting them know there are people who believe in them.

Kimberly is the coauthor of the bestseller, Chicken soup for the Teenage Soul and the New York Times bestseller, Chicken Soup for the teenage Soul ii, as well as Chicken Soup for the Teenage Soul Journal. She is also the coauthor of the forthcoming Chicken Soup for the parent's Soul and Chicken Soup for the Teenage soul iii, and the author of Teen Love: On Relationships, a Book for Teenagers.

Kimberly started the Teen Letter Project with Jack Canfield, Mark Victor Hansen and Health Communications, Inc. The Project is responsible for answering the heartfelt letters received from teenagers and also reaching out to teens in trouble and encouraging them to seek professional help.

A NATIONWIDE BESTSELLER

It's likely that everything you learned about America's ancient history is wrong.

The new book, 1491, completely changes our understanding of the Americas before the arrival of Columbus in 1492.

DID YOU KNOW?

When Columbus landed there were probably more people in the Americas than there were in Europe.

The peoples of North America had such healthy life styles that as late as the 19th century they continued to be the tallest people on earth.

Facts have shown that the Americas were populated as long as 33,000 years ago.

4,000 years ago Mesoamerican farmers developed corn in a feat(技艺) of genetic engineering that still isn't completely understood.

COMMENTS ON 1491

“In the tradition of Jared Damond & John McPhee, a totally new view of pre-Columbian America.”

Richard Rhodes

“Attractively written and really absorbing...Charles C Mann has produced a book that's part detective story, part epic(诗史) and part tragedy. He has taken on a vast topic: thousands of years, two huge continents, and cultures.”

Charles Matthews, San Jose Mercury News

“Powerful and challenging.”

Alan Taylor, Washington post

“A pleasure to read as well as a wonderful education.”

Howard Zinn

65. On the whole, 1491 is a book mainly about America's _____.
A. life-styles
B. population

- C. adapt oneself to new conditions quickly
- D. be open-minded to new experiences

Buster Brown was a thief-and a good one, too, he thought. He'd never been caught by the police because he never took chance. He was always prepared for any unforeseen event of emergency.

Confidently, he stood outside the house of his intended victim and read the sign on the front gate of the house. "Don't worry the dog-be aware of the owner!" it said. Buster smiled and found his way in.

The house looked quite normal outside, but inside it was very exotic with fascinating objects on display. As he began putting them into his bag, a dog came into the room. It stopped when it saw Buster, then wagged its tail madly and went over to him, licking his outstretched hand. "Good boy," Buster whispered. "What a great guard dog you are-trying to lick me to death."

Satisfied he'd made friends with the dog, Buster began to wander around the house, choosing items to put in his bag. His skilled eye picked out only the antiques: a pair of silver candleholders, a silver tea-and-c. "Well, boy," Buster whispered finally. "That might do. Any more and I won't be able to carry it!" He swung the heavy bag onto his shoulders, just as the lights came on, nearly blinding him. He shielded his eyes with his hand.

"You're a very silly person," the figure in the doorway said, his voice dry as dust. As the man came closer, Buster could see he was well dressed. His face seemed familiar, but Buster couldn't place where he had seen him before.

"You should have taken more notice of the sign outside." The man rasped. "I knew about this attempted robbery last week and I also know you will end up behind bars for 20 years. Fancy trying to rob the house of the world's greatest fortune-teller!"

72. Why was Buster so confident?

- A. He was not afraid of dogs.
- B. He knew the house lived alone.
- C. He had never been caught by the police.
- D. The house had no security alarm.

73. Which of the definitions is closest in meaning to the word "exotic" in the third paragraph?

- A. Messy and untidy
- B. Rich and expensive
- C. Comfortable and calming
- D. Foreign and unusual

74. How did Buster decide which objects to take?

- A. He took those that were easy to carry in this bag.
- B. He took only the best antique.
- C. He took those that he knew he could sell easily.
- D. He looked for silver objects.

75. What punishment waits for Buster Brown?

- A. A prison sentence with hard labour.
- B. A long prison sentence.
- C. A heavy fine.
- D. Community service for 20 years.

One Possible Version :

June 8th

Dear Jianhua ,

I'm very glad to have received the letter you sent me two weeks ago . I've been thinking about the question you asked me . In my opinion , you should come back after you finish your studies abroad . For one reason , what you are studying is badly needed nowadays in China . It will be quite easy for you to find a good job . In fact , I know a few big companies in our city are hoping to hire people like you . For another reason , I think it will be much more convenient for you to look after your parents as they are getting old . Therefore , I think it's a good idea for you to return . So what are you waiting for ?

Best wishes ,
