No two cultures are the same. The American and Indian cultures have very vast differences between them. While the culture of America is a mixture of different cultures, the Indian culture is unique and has its own values.

One of the major differences that can be seen between American and Indian culture is in family relations. While the Indians are very much family oriented, the Americans are individual oriented. In Indian culture, the family values are given more importance than the individual values. Indians respect family values. On the other hand, in American culture the individual values get more importance than the family values.

In another sense, it can be said that the American culture is more goal oriented and the Indian culture is more people or family oriented. Indians may even forsake their individual wishes and also happiness for the sake of families. But in American culture, this trend cannot be seen.

Unlike the Indians, the Americans plan things ahead. The Americans believe in controlling nature and controlling the world around them. On the contrary, Indians believe in harmony with nature. Another difference that can be seen between Indian culture and American culture is that the Indians love stability while the Americans love mobility.

In American culture, one can see that the individuals think of independence. On the other hand, Indians are more dependent on others. While the children in the US are brought up to live an independent life, the children in India are not brought up in that way. In Indian culture, there is respect for the elders and it is they who make decisions. But in American culture, each individual makes his own decisions.

Coming to competition, Indians are more competitive than the Americans. Coming to work nature, the Indians work for meeting the family needs. On the contrary, an American will only strive to rise on his own capacity（能力）. Another difference that can be seen is that Americans have a great regard for time and its value. But Indians are different.

21. From Paragraph 2, we know that compared to Americans, Indians _____.

- A. pay more attention to themselves
  - B. are more committed to（担负责任）their families
  - C. attach less importance to their culture
  - D. don't value so many things in their life
22. What does the underlined word “forsake” in Paragraph 3 mean?
- A. give up
  - B. show off
  - C. expose something to
  - D. take up
23. What is implied about children in India?
- A. They often struggle to become independent.

- B. They usually don't show much respect to the elderly.
  - C. They are usually not encouraged to make decisions.
  - D. They are taught to depend on themselves from an early age.
24. What's the writer's purpose in writing the passage?
- A. To help us become interested in different cultures in the world.
  - B. To prove that American culture is a mixture of different cultures.
  - C. To explain why Indian culture is different from American culture.
  - D. To compare the differences between Indian and American cultures.

How many times have you been reading an online article in English only to discover that you don't know the exact meaning of an important word? Or how many times have you been writing an essay in English only to find you don't have the exact word you are looking for to express yourself completely? If you have ever faced either of these situations, you should consider downloading the free dictionary, WordWeb.

The first step in downloading WordWeb is navigating to the download website, where you will find the latest version and see that over 9,000,000 people have downloaded WordWeb.

The second step in downloading WordWeb is clicking "Download Now". Then, a pop-up screen will provide you with a destination for the file. Unless you already have a directory where you store all your downloaded files, I recommend saving the file to the desktop. On a phone line connection, this download process may take half an hour, but with a good connection on campus, it will take only a few minutes.

The third step is setting it up. After the download completes, just find the file on our desktop and double-click it. You will have several options in the installation(安装) process. One important option is whether you want WordWeb to load into your system tray (盘) when you start your computer. I recommend that you answer "yes" to this option, so when you use WordWeb, the dictionary will appear instantly. Setting up WordWeb is easy. You should experiment with the variety of options until you are satisfied with your WordWeb.

In sum, WordWeb is an excellent dictionary. If you navigate to the download site, download the file, and install it exactly as I have described, you will have an excellent, free dictionary on your computer. This means that you will never have problems again reading or writing in English because of an unknown word.

25. What can be inferred from Paragraph 2?
- A. WordWeb is well received.
  - B. There is a download limit.
  - C. Sometimes the website is busy.
  - D. Only the latest version is available.
26. According to the passage, which of the following sentences is true?
- A. The download process will just take several minutes with a good connection on - campus.

- B. We should download WordWeb if we don't have the exact sentence to express ourselves.
  - C. We will have only one choice when we install WordWeb.
  - D. WordWeb is a very cheap dictionary.
27. If you have installed WordWeb on your computer, you_____.
- A. can read any online article for free
  - B. will have no trouble in learning English
  - C. will express yourself properly in English
  - D. can find the exact meaning of a word easily

C

Camping without a campfire is not camping at all. Late-night conversations and games around the campfire are essential for a pleasant camping experience. However, you ought to be aware of the fact that camping with a campfire is not all about fun. It needs a certain degree of responsibility. If you are planning to set up a campfire, or if you are planning to cook during camping, you should remember some fire safety tips.

Choose a campsite which has a campfire pit (深坑). This will ensure that you will be capable of controlling your campfire. If there is no fire pit, set up your own. However, you should be careful not to place the fire pit near your camping tent.

When you set up a campfire, make sure that you put the campfire materials in the right order. This can help you make sure that there will be no flying debris (碎片) once you light your fire. Put the light materials first such as paper or dry leaves. Then, put the wood. Finally, make sure that you place stones around the campfire pit.

Never burn plastics or other poisonous materials, which will disturb your neighboring campground guests. It will also significantly pollute the air and promote the risk of fire spreads. Do not use petrol every time you attempt to light your campfire. Use it only when all the other fire-making options fail.

Once your campfire is set up, do not leave the flame unattended. Before you leave your campsite or before you go to bed, make sure that your campfire is completely out. Leaving fire unattended runs high risks of forest fires and the like.

28. The underlined sentence in the first paragraph implies_____.
- A. camping with a campfire is all about fun
  - B. it is perfect to go camping without a campfire
  - C. a campfire is the most important thing when camping
  - D. a campfire may light the camp and be used for cooking

- B. make wood and dry leaves burn easily

  - D. prevent them from flying away from the fire pit
30. What does the underlined word “it” in Paragraph 4 refer to?
- A. Promoting the risk of fire spreads.
  - B. Burning plastics or other poisonous materials.
  - C. Disturbing your neighboring campground guests.
  - D. Never burning plastics or other poisonous materials.
31. What would be the best title for the text?
- A. Dangerous campfires.
  - B. Beautiful campfires.
  - C. Fire safety tips during camping.
  - D. Pleasant camping experiences.

D

There was some trouble in space over the weekend. On Thursday May 9, flakes of frozen ammonia (氨) were seen drifting from the International Space Station(ISS). The team on board immediately prepared for a spacewalk to look into the issue. Two days later, on Saturday, two astronauts stepped outside the ISS to investigate (调查) the leak. The chief suspect was an old ammonia pump.

Thomas Marshburn and Christopher Cassidy conducted the search, but did not discover any visible damage. “All the pipes look shiny clean,” Cassidy reported as he used a mirror to peer into the tight, deep openings. Even so, the astronauts removed the old pump and replaced it with a new one.

Ammonia is used on the ISS to cool the spacecraft’s electronic equipment. NASA said this leak did not pose a safety threat to the six space station residents (常驻居民). But problems with the cooling system could threaten experiments and equipment.

It is still not clear why exactly the leak erupted(喷发). NASA speculates (推测) that a microscopic piece of space matter struck the space station, leaving a tiny crack in the ammonia pump. Another possibility is that there was simply a leaky seal in the pipe. Either way, “there’s nothing to lose by putting in a fresh pump and pressing ahead with additional detective work,” said Mission Control.

The ISS was launched into orbit in 1998. Since 2000, a crew of astronauts and scientists has continuously occupied it. While in orbit, the international team of astronauts could perform scientific research and data about conditions in the Milky Way and beyond. Many of their experiments focus on humans’ ability to live and work in space over long periods of time.

NASA astronauts Tom Marshburn and Chris Cassidy completed the May 11 spacewalk in 5 hours and 30 minutes. While these astronauts have performed some amazing tasks, NASA has never before staged a spacewalk so quickly. Marshburn has been on the space station since December, and Cassidy is a new arrival to the ISS. While the leaky pump mystery continues to puzzle the ISS team, they hope further investigations will provide answers. “This type of event is what the years of training were for,” space station commander Chris Hadfield said on Friday.

32. From Paragraph 2 we learn that _____.
A. it is impossible to peer into deep openings
B. it is very difficult to replace a pump
C. it was not easy to find the damage
D. some pipes have become too old
33. What is the main use for ammonia on the ISS?
A. To prevent astronauts on the ISS from feeling too hot.
B. To prevent pumps on the ISS from getting old quickly.
C. To help astronauts stay safe when there is damage to the space station.
D. To prevent the spacecraft’s electronic equipment from becoming too hot.
34. It is implied in Paragraph 4 that Mission Control _____.
A. thinks changing the pump is necessary
B. wants to keep the cause of the problem secret
C. is sure that the space station has been struck
D. no longer wants to find out the cause of the problem
35. What does the last paragraph suggest about the recent spacewalk?
A. It took too much time.
B. It was really dangerous.
C. It was quite satisfactory.
D. It wasn’t amazing enough.
